ACADEMIC

VOCATIONAL

OUR TECH IS DIVIDED INTO FOUR PARTS: A COMPREHENSIVE

HIGH SCHOOL, A SUMMER SCHOOL, AN ADULT EVENING SCHOOL, AND AN EIGHTH GRADE.

Our Tech is not one but four progressive schools, in operation day and night, all seasons of the year, training youth and adults to enjoy life more fully through attaining a well-rounded education. It is a comprehensive high school, a popular summer school, a progressive evening school, and an energetic eighth grade. It is a campus of 76 wooded acres with thirteen buildings, eight dating back to Civil War days. It provides us with an education for citizenship, it guides us in human relations, it trains us for proper use of our leisure time, and it develops in us the desire for helpful home living and happy working hours. Yes, our Tech has one great aim—it inspires us

TO DEVELOP OUR TALENTS FOR A FRUITFUL LIFE IN AN UNSURPASSED COMMUNITY

THE plaza in the quadrangle is a favorite place to stop for a chat during the lunch periods on a bright spring day.

BATHED in the warm afternoon sunlight, our majestic old Arsenal radiates warmth and friendliness to us as we pass through its doors, just as it has to many others before us.

SUMMER, WINTER, SPRING, AND FALL OUR CAMPUS IS

IN winter when the snow covers the campus as well as in summer the Milo H. Stuart Memorial Hall tower is a most impressive sight through the tracery of the bare branches.

TEEMING WITH ACTIVITY.

A POPULAR walk, especially during lunch hours, leads from the Arsenal and Treadwell Hall to the Artillery Building which houses the lunchrooms.

WRITE A POEM, PROVE A THEOREM, DISSECT A FROG,

READING! Reading! Reading! Classes in the Reading Laboratory concentrate to increase their reading speed.

Study, grind, study, and then, study some more! Long themes, math projects, research, and homework, all are part of that plot of teachers and parents to give this generation a good education. Academic subjects are required for high school and high schools are required for youth. It's doubtful if we teens would give up either. We learn of others and learn with others, studying English, math, languages, history, and sciences.

OR REVIVE AN HISTORICAL EVENT, IT'S ACADEMIC

Our teachers present the subjects interestingly and well. How can we resist learning, working to make better citizens of ourselves?

AS they look forward to the day when their plants will bloom, repaying them for their hard work, Mr. McCoy's landscaping class builds a rock garden east of the Arsenal.

MEMBERS of Monsieur Charles Martin's French IV class enjoy themselves when reading and acting out a play which is not in their own native language.

SING A SONG, TYPE

Technically speaking, technical subjects are workable subjects. They add spice to our school days; learning that can be applied today and in years to come. Business minded youth flock down the halls to the wide variety of business classes, future housewives study the art of home economics, social butterflies brush up on etiquette, and young artists develop artistic skills, each working to build a career.

JUDITH Woolbright patiently poses as Alberta Matzke applies her talents to a chalk drawing she is making in an art class of Mr. Schildknecht.

AS the class watches, Miss Hilda Kreft demonstrates the wrong way to hold a coffee cup for her Social Practice class.

A LINE, OR RUN A MILE, IT'S TECHNICAL!

IN one of the classes in the busy Commercial department which prepares young people for positions directly after graduation from high school is Patricia Shipp who is taking dictation from Miss Arete Covey in Shorthand.

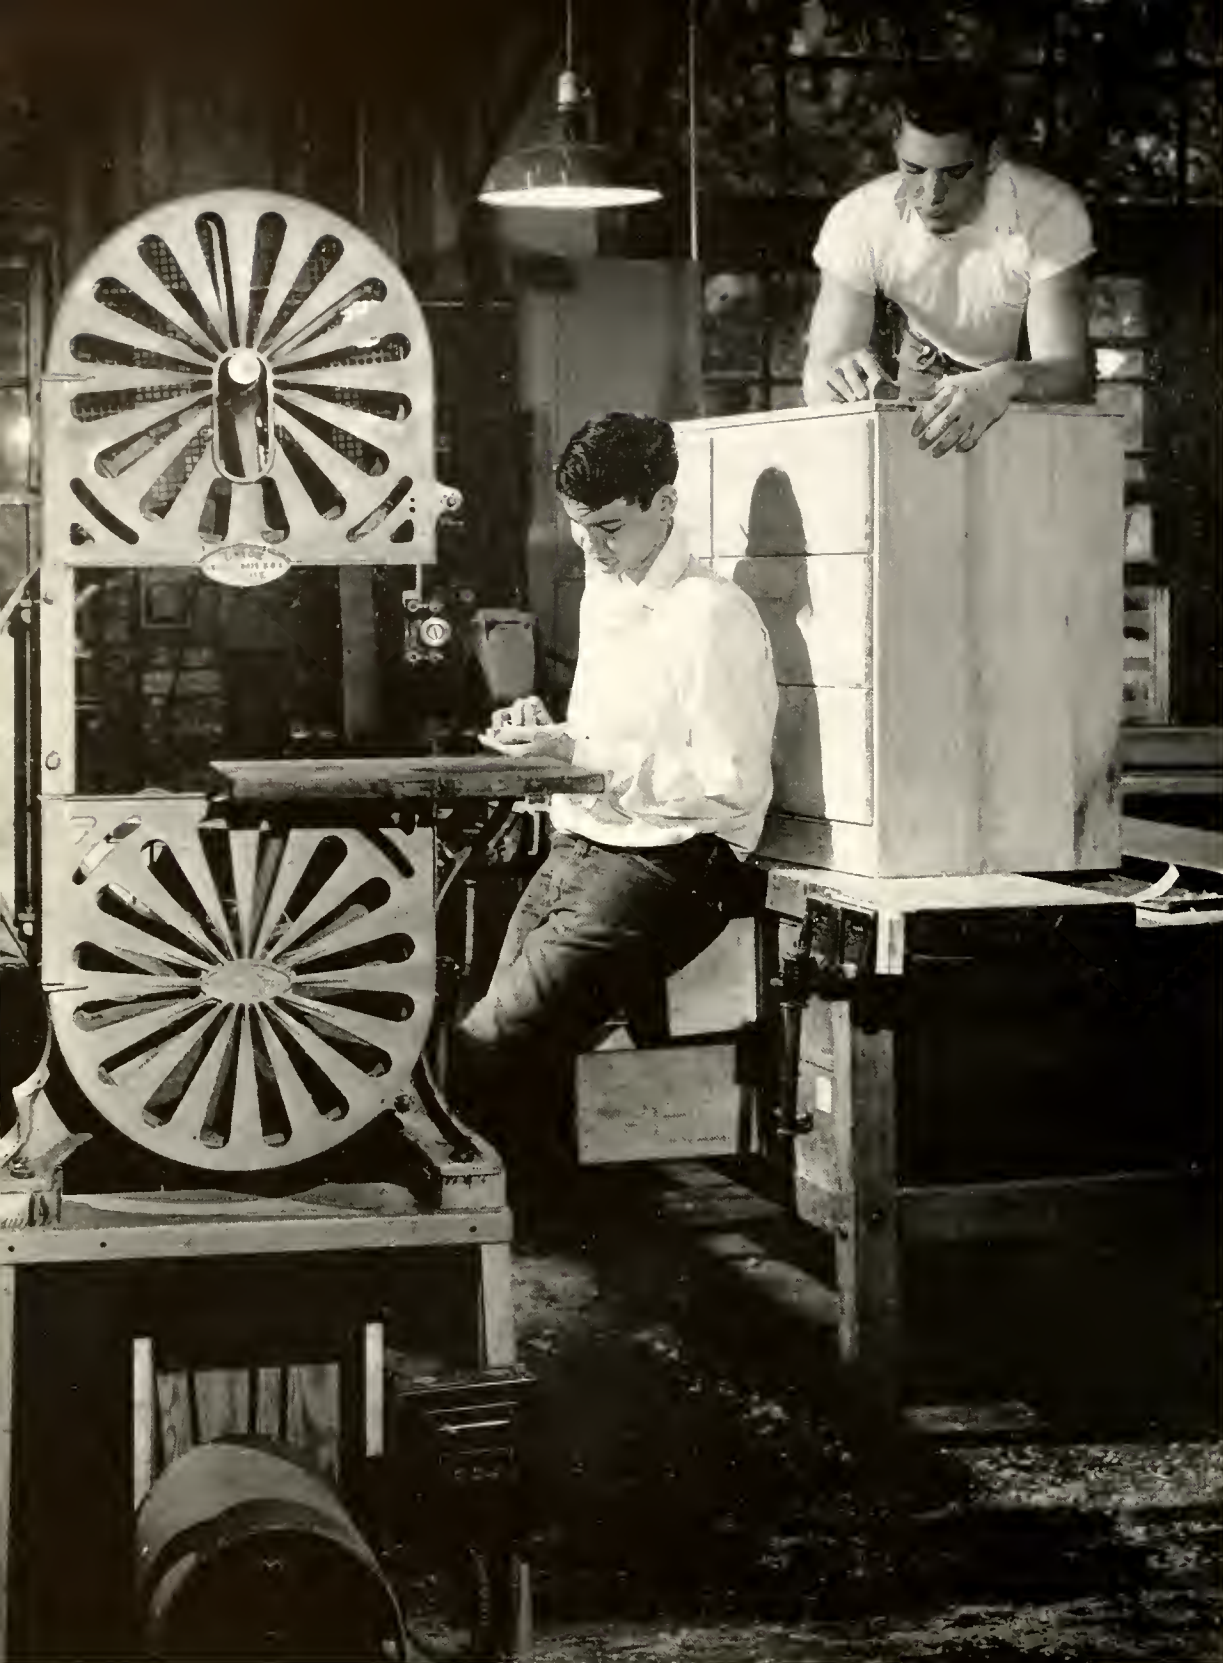

WHILE other members of the Mechanical Drawing class work on their individual problems, Mr. Floyd Tobrocke discusses Robert Thom's drawing with him.

MR. John P. Lahr and his class in Retail Selling observe the correct procedure of salesmanship as shown by Barbara Ellis as the sales girl and Evon Crick and Dean Patterson, customers.

BUILD A

TWO boys who may sometime be famous for creating their own furniture designs are Carol Wood and Lloyd Merrill in Mr. Hanen's Cabinet-Making class.

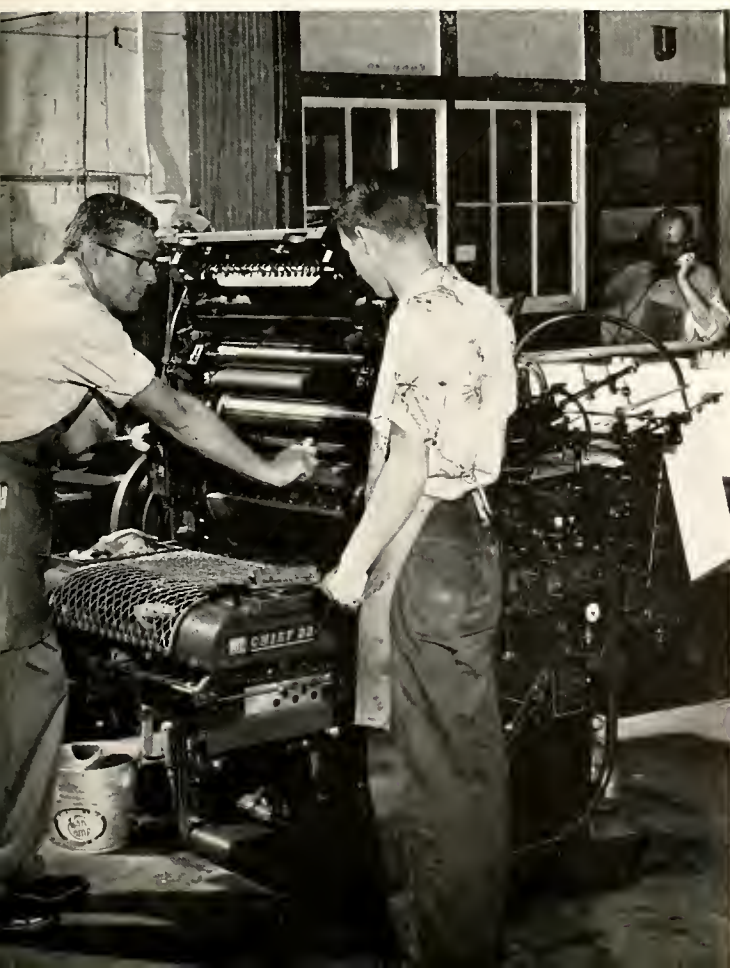

HOUSE, PRINT A PAGE, PAINT A CAR, IT'S VOCATIONAL

Along the winding walks on the west side of Tech, we trace our steps to the vocational shops. Dust and dirt, smouldering fires, pots of paints, hot lead, the clang of huge hammers, or the peckity-peck of linotype machines, all make the shops what they are. They inspire, they create, they build. They are the backbone of our school and community.

BENCHES, stepping stones, and bird baths emerge from molds in Mr. Lampert's busy Cement Shop.

WILLIAM Phillips and James Curl watch with interest as Mr. Deem explains to them the skill needed in running the Print Shop offset press.

MR. PENCE explains the method of covering a plane wing to Robert Graves, Jerome Lee, Hugh Daugherty, Edward Row, and Lee Endicott in Airplane Mechanics.

THEY ARE CAREFREE, THEY ARE HAPPY, THEY ARE BUBBLING

LEARNING the fundamentals of carpentry, boys in Woodworking are taught how to wield a fancy hammer, to hit a nail on the head; and to sow in a straight line in order to make good shadow boxes for their bedroom walls.

Our "grade school seniors" with their inquisitive enthusiasm, add a certain spice to Tech's life. Signs of this spice become apparent during the annual presentation of "the Eighth Grade's answer to the

OVER WITH ENERGY--THEY ARE OUR EIGHTH GRADERS.

'Sketchbook' "--the "Scratch Pad". However, all talent is not confined to the stage. Talent for learning is displayed in the classroom in subjects covering everything from dressmaking to block printing to theme writing. We know that we have the finest eighth grade found anywhere. Here students are being prepared for a full, happy, high school life, and subsequently, a good life in the community.

STARTING on the domestic road are Sandra Jones and Judith Miller, learning sewing principles in Miss Hardy's eighth grade class.

IT'S POPULAR, IT'S FULL OF HAPPY MOMENTS, IT HAS A

AS the sun glares brightly, the band gives forth with music during summer school, led by Mr. White.

FRIENDLY ATMOSPHERE--THAT'S OUR SUMMER SCHOOL.

A light summer breeze rustles through the trees, carrying with it voices of Tech's summer school. A strain of music, a victorious shout from the girls' play field, a giggle from a classroom, all drift away with the breeze. Unlike other schools, Tech's campus is spacious, making summer school a popular place. The warm sun encourages students to find happiness in working together.

EXPERIMENTS showing ways to test different plant parts for various kinds of foods were performed in Mr. John Kendrick's Botany I summer school class, to the delight of the students.

SUMMER school can be fun, these square dancers have found, as they go through the intricate steps in Mrs. Day's class.

A SATURDAY morning class of hard-working apprentice bricklayers learns the art of handling a trowl and mortar, with this increased knowledge developing their ability to build arches, doorways, and similar structures, using types of designs such as the basket weave.

STRIPPING down an old chair, a student learns the proper way to tie a roll of padding in place with cord and needle.

IT'S CONTINUING OUR EDUCATION--IT'S OUR EVENING SCHOOL.

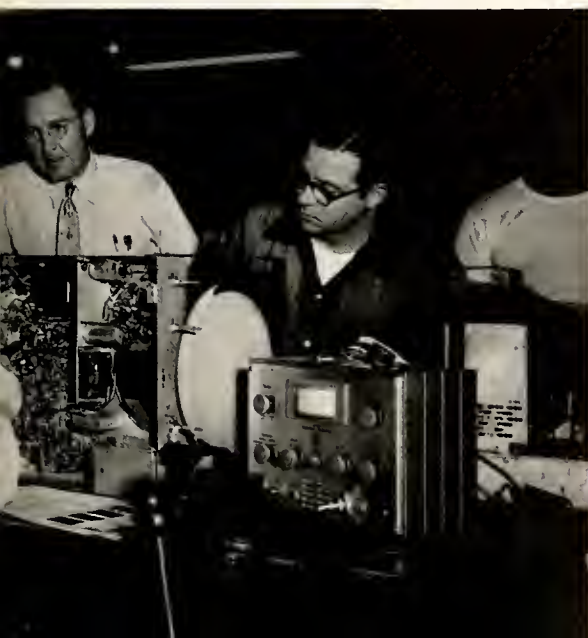

When the lights of Tech go on, groups of silhouetted figures can be seen hurrying across the dimly lighted campus to Evening School. One wonders at the strength, the courage of these men and women, willing to continue their education after long hours of work in offices or homes. They come to finish high school requirements. They come to increase their skill in industry. They come to learn new hobbies or improve old ones. Most of all they come with the desire to develop interests and abilities which will make them more worthy community members. The wintry stars shine down on our busy campus as education is continued.

AN interesting course is weaving where adults learn how to thread a loom, handle the shuttle, and design patterns for various woven articles.

IN one of the more difficult classes, which is Electric Shop, men learn how to ferret out problems in television sets.

MR. WETZEL, director of the Adult Evening School, enrolls a student in one of the many popular courses as the secretarial staff busily works on records.

OUR General Superintendent of Education, Dr. Herman L. Shibler, is a welcome visitor at Tech.

OUR SUPERINTENDENT IS A VERY BUSY MAN

LOOKING at the Freedoms Foundation books which won a Principal Award for Tech are School Board members Mrs. Dale R. Da-Vee, Superintendent Shibler, Joseph Guidone. Standing: Morten Hansen, Leo M. Gardner, Grier M. Shotwell.

Like all large organizations, a school city has its governing body. Heading the Indianapolis public educational system are Dr. Herman L. Shibler, general superintendent of Education, and the Board of School Commissioners. An important part of our school system, they control the "do's and don'ts" of our vast organization.

A SPECIAL friend of all Techites is our principal, Mr. H. H. Anderson.

WE'RE FOND OF OUR PRINCIPAL

When we meet our principal on the walks or in the halls, we scarcely realize that he is such a busy man because of his friendly smile and cordial greeting. He is a man who commands our friendship, our admiration, our respect.

WE PRESENT OUR OFFICIAL AIDES-DE-CAMP

MR. H. H. ANDERSON, principal, holds a meeting with his administrative staff, comprised of the five vice-principals and the dean of girls, to discuss a school project. They are (left to right) Harold H. Walter, Herman L. Hinshaw, Cecil McClintock, Fred R. Gorman, Mr. Anderson, Earl Ensinger, and Mrs. Martha Turpin.

Our principal's aides-de-camp, helping him to guide our Tech on its due course, are the six members of his administrative staff, while his official record keepers are the office staff. With these two efficient groups it is impossible for even one boy or girl to be lost or forgotten in the shuffle.

AND OUR BUSY DEPARTMENT HEADS AND DIRECTORS

ing; Robert V. Belding, Mathematics; H. Floyd Fye, Electrical; William F. Maan, Music; Reuben D. Behlmer, Physical Education and Health; C. S. Stewart, Program Production director; Warren Cleveland, Drafting. Top Row: Oakley E. Richey, Art; Oka S. Flick, Social Studies; G. Kenneth Barr, Visual Education director; Ivan A. Hanen, Building Trades; George L. Lane, Auto Shop; Paul W. Wetzel, Evening School director; Fred H. Gillespie, Commercial.

Another group that is indispensable is comprised of the departments heads and directors of special activities, those active persons who must know the "five w's" of their individual departments. As leaders they are continually at their work, preparing for the next day, the next week, and the next month, knowing that they must be ever ready to answer a thousand and one questions.

DEPARTMENT ASSISTANTS—Seated (left to right): William Walser, Building Trades; Mrs. Bertha Brooks, Home Economics; Mrs. Evelyn Mattingly, Dean's Office; Mrs. Olga Geisler, Music; Mrs. Josephine Schlenck, Music; Jacquiline Staub, Military; Mrs. Mary Van Buskirk, English; Mrs. Verda Allee, Military. These are Tech's teachers, our guiding lights; the guardians of our hopes for the future, to whom we turn for aid in time of trouble and for friendship in time of peace. They are our inspiration, our doorway to success, and our most earnest well-wishers. They praise us when we do well and pick up the broken feelings when we fail. Their hopes for us urge us to try again, to reach for even greater accomplishments. They teach us the value of an education; its value for us and for the community. Theirs is the satisfaction of knowing this will be a better place in which to live for they have confidence in youth. Playing their parts with great skill and understanding, they guide us toward becoming better citizens for tomorrow.

Von Arendonk, Samuel Skomp, Fred Wilson, Mrs. Elizabeth Stephenson, Edith Silver.

PRINCIPAL Anderson chats with Miss Aino Siltanen, teacher from Finland who spent five weeks at Tech, during the "Coffee and Doughnut Hour" the faculty had in Miss Siltanen's honor, the Friday between semesters.

MISS Leunice Horne looks doubtful as Miss Jean Wells tries to sell her one of the many bargains listed on the office Trading Post.

THESE ARE OUR HELPFUL FRIENDS

SEVEN of our busy cafeteria staff are (Standing): Mrs. Elsie Roberts, baakkeeper; Mrs. Laura Basey, cashier; Mrs. Angeline Clearwater. (Seated): Mrs. Elizabeth L. Ross, lunchraam manager; Miss Hazel Hirth, Mrs. Mable Bennett, and Mrs. Esta Parsley.

IN the carpentry shop in the rear of Stuart Hall, Mr. Carl Schooley, Tech's busier-than-busy carpenter, talks with Mr. Edward Hamilton, head custodian.

FOUR of the busy lunchroom staff make the delicious salads served each day in our cafeteria.

WE'RE proud of our Retired Teachers' Association which has interesting luncheon meetings fall and spring at school.

IT'S TEA FOR NEW TEACHERS, EACH FALL

All is not correcting papers, helping us along the rocky road, and making out absence slips, for teachers have their good times too; times for friends to get together.

CHATTING at the fall faculty tea are Principal and Mrs. Anderson, Thomas Brethauer, Mrs. Jean Eaves, exchange teacher from England.

VISITING at the tea with Mrs. Gerald Kempf, president of P-TA (center), are Mr. Norman Brinker, Mr. H. H. Walter, Mr. Fred Henke, Miss Sara Ewing.

AT an attractively appointed tea table are Mrs. Charlotte Wolfe, Mr. Kenneth Barr, Miss Hilda Kreft, Mr. Sy Perszyk, Mr. Kermit Swenson, and Miss Dorothy Steele.

A VARIETY OF

A large black and white photograph of a crowded indoor arena, likely a school gymnasium, filled with students seated on bleachers. The stage area is visible in the background, featuring a large circular wreath and a scoreboard. The image is taken from an elevated position, looking down at the audience and towards the stage. The ceiling is high with visible structural beams and lighting fixtures. The audience is dense, filling most of the lower half of the frame. On the stage, there are several figures, possibly performers or officials, and a large circular wreath is prominently displayed. A scoreboard is visible on the left side of the stage area. The overall atmosphere is one of a significant school event or assembly.

OUR GALA CLUBS

A school without co-curricular activities is like spring without flowers or a house without windows. It lacks brightness and carefree joy. Tech, with its abundance of co-curricular activities provides its students with such a supply that if one were to indulge in all of them he'd simply be lost. The brief mention of future club meetings made in roll call each day, gives us only a slight glimpse of all that goes on behind closed doors. Our thirteen clubs, our class contests, and other activities make for those of us who participate a very busy life. Meetings are held and from those meetings come plans for parties, special projects, glorious dances, and lots of work and fun for everyone. Tech takes pride in its many activities and the honors won by its special groups.

TWO OF OUR HONOR SOCIETIES ARE COVETED GOALS

Young journalists and budding actors and actresses find a great deal of enjoyment in Tech's two extra-curricular honor societies, the national Thespians and International Quill and Scroll. These organizations give students in drama and in publications a goal toward which to work.

ANNE Bryant, president, and Judith Griggs, secretary (center), initiated Virginia Breedlove, Michael Hubbell, Betty Jane Reed, and Lerittia Ingram into the Hilton U. Brawn Chapter of Quill and Scroll at the Arsenal Cannon Awards banquet.

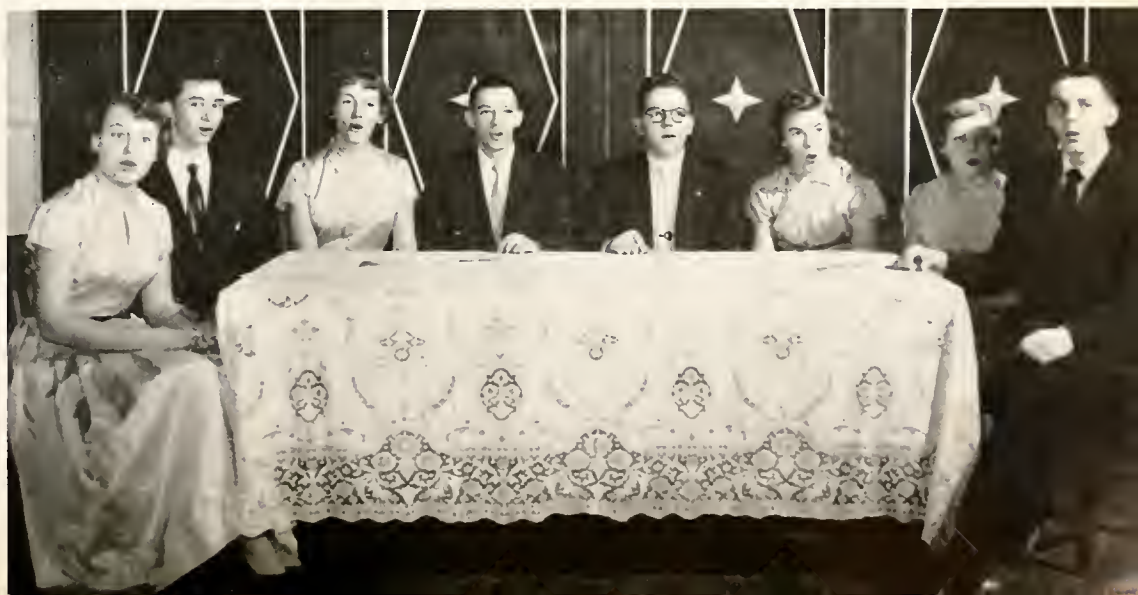

TECH CHOIR—First Row: Linda FASTER, Judith Pieper, Conchita Hawell, Linda Prater, Doris Greenwald, Dixie Griffie, Ethel Blessing, Ann Baba, Bannie Bryson, Judith Rousch, Virginia Hake, Rosalynn Hasseld, Velma Schakel, Jayce Taylor, Eleanor Trubendarfer, Dorothea Deeter, Diana Schaeckel, Linda Zeigler. TECH IS THE HOME OF MANY MUSICAL GROUPS

Through the green doors of Treadwell Hall echo sounds of a chorus of youthful voices, sometimes rollicking, and then, again, mellow, drifting down the long halls, blending in perfect harmony. Across the campus, from the Band Room comes the gay beat of Sousa's marching tunes, while from the old Barn float the strains of a violin or clarinet. All these blend to tell of happy youth in the department of Music. All Tech sings: sings of its joys, good times, and happy days.

AT the old-fashioned spelling bee, Scott McCoy as Squire Howkins pronounces the words for Jim Morrison and Carol Frisbie (left), pitted against Emery Banta and Marilyn Gilliatte.

'THE HOOSIER SCHOOLMASTER' WAS TOPS!

LAST-MINUTE touches hastily added before the performance are accomplished by Marilyn Hawkins, Cevia Greenberg, and Marilyn Gilliatte.

HURRIEDLY applying make-up to the cast before the curtain rises are Mr. Wadleigh and Mr. Robert Maloy.

High-top shoes, sunbonnets, and homespun dresses took the lead at Tech when Thespians presented "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," directed by Mr. Paul Wadleigh. Overalls and gingham dresses came back into style when the Square Dance Club, directed by Miss Helen Caffyn, danced, to the delight of the audience. It was a play packed with frontier humor, romance, and tense drama—the story of life in Southern Indiana in 1872, presented for our enjoyment.

SWING your partner, do-si-do, it's country style for Paul Alger, Larry Turpin, Charles Stinson, Janis Shirley, Philip Shrigley, Sandra Potts, and Marilyn Hawkins as they sedotely enjoy a square dance.

ROBERT Adams, Stephen Mooring, John Wampner, and Robert Killion finish dressing as Edward Ross makes sure that the curtain ropes work.

WHETHER actors or stage hands, Emery Banta, James Glaze, Richard Ayer, Courtland Ricketts, and William Dollinger all work together to get the stage ready on time.

There's no business like show business, as dramatic Techites well know. Rehearsing, painting, practicing, and rehearsing some more, they work to provide us with serious or side-splitting entertainment. Then with all the enchantment of an opening night, complete with the scenery, the lighting, the backaches, and the props, the principals step into the spotlight to win their ways into the hearts of an enraptured audience.

MELVIN Critchlow, Jo Dollinger, and Donald Kelly presented a clever playlet at the Mordi Gras.

DRAMTICS SCORE HIGH WITH US

AT "Freshmon Follies" Patricia Hazel danced to "Hernando's Hideaway" and Tommy Williams played the accordion.

PRESENTING "The Rivals," Sheridan's comedy, as the first oll-school play, under the direction of Mr. Robert D. Maloy, were (left to right) Robert Bright, DAVID Ettinger as General Steele, Emery Banta as Lincoln, and Thomas Cone as Governor Morton were leads in the Lincoln Day Memorial program both at school and at the Claypool Hotel.

IN "Honeymoon Express," 1954 "Sketchbook," were Wilma Pollard, Sharon Hildebrand, Mary Riegel, Janna Sue Jones, Dixie Griffie, Irene Morris, Dorothea Deeter, and Marcia Dickinson.

PRODUCING OUR YEARBOOK WAS AN ALL-YEAR JOB

When the busy little squirrel comes to the Cannon office window to beg for nuts, he sees an ever busier group of boys and girls. The building fairly sings with the activities of the hard workers within. With hustle and bustle, they go about their many assigned duties, a few doing a big job. "Cannon kiddies" are always working against a deadline to produce the best in a weekly newspaper and yearbook.

THE business staff, with 150 roll room agents, is comprised of Jerry Rodenbarger, circulation; Phillip Roberts, business manager; Juonita Kottkamp, typist. Not pictured: Anna Graves, typist.

NELSON Steele, Mory Ann Williams, John Sturgeon, and Clifford Fleetwood are keeping up on the news of other high schools in the country by helping themselves to copies of exchanges which the Cannon gets.

OUR ROTC MARCHES ON

Hup hip! Hup hip! Your left, your left! And here they come and there they go, Tech's R.O.T.C. Unit. Every Thursday and Friday this "army," in sharply pressed uniforms, shiny brass, and highly polished shoes, visibly invades Tech, while the rest of the week they are just one of us. They work all week, all year, in classes and on the drill field, preparing for the spring Federal Inspection. When that special day arrives, they are in step, ready to go.

Our Tech Band marches past the Regimental Staff.

Special guests watch the unit with interest.

THE GRIDDEERS TIED FOR NCC CROWN

A Metropolitan Jinx hit the Big Green, co-champions of the rugged North Central Conference, following its initial city victory over Howe. After this triumph, the Greenclads failed to register another win in city competition. On the brighter side was Tech's fine showing in the Conference where the Green finished with a 4-0-1 record, including a sparkling upset over Muncie Central's Bearcats, supposed mythical State Champions. For the first time in several years, the Medium Green footballers finished their season on the short end in the victory column. An obvious lack of size and experience hampered the B team throughout its schedule; it managed to win but one tilt while losing four and tying one. The smallest Green finished its 1954 season with a dazzling record of five victories and one defeat while rolling up a grand total of 184 points as opposed to 19 points for its opponents.

MEET OUR BASKET TOSSERS

Led by sharp-shooting captain Carl Meditch, our varsity hoopmen completed their season with a 13-7 record including a 6-3 NCC finish, a 5-4 city standing, and a 2-0 county record. In addition to this, the Greenclads dropped two foes in the Sectionals before succumbing to Shortridge. In Coach Charles Maas' endeavor to find the right starting combination, all members of the varsity start a season tilt at least once during the season. However, most of the time the combination of Jim Stonebraker, Dave Dagwell, Oscar Ammer, Bob Weaver, and Carl Meditch clicked consistently.

ANDRIS Strelricks presents to Mr. Anderson the trophy which he won for the school in the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild Model Car Competition.

Being a senior is not just wearing a little bow of ribbon, a ring, a cap and gown at graduation. Being a senior is something indescribable. It is the feeling of having achieved, of having grown up, of having become more a person than ever before. We seniors think we are the wisest, the oldest, the best; still, we are just at the threshold of life. To be a senior has been our goal; and the goal achieved, it is an honor to say, "I am a senior."

THERE IS

Every year the campus is alive with senior activities; an endless whirl of work, meetings, and good times. We have the Bull Session for college-bound boys, the college tea for girls, Sadie Hawkins Day, and dances galore. As the year draws to a close we have Honor Day, torch-passing, Senior Day, Vespers, Commencement, and the Senior Prom. They all add sparkle, confusion, and enjoyment to the lives of seniors.

PRINCIPAL Anderson opens the 1954 Commencement exercises with a brief word of welcome to parents and relatives of the graduates.

MISS Edith Allen, David Nice, Robert Turner, and Mr. Anderson take part in Honor Day.

JAMES O'Dell passes the torch to this year's senior class representative Helen Johnston.

FOR their entry in the stunts, members of Roll Room 7 play a basketball game on Senior Day.

NEVER A DULL MOMENT

REIGNING at the senior Sadie Hawkins Day dance are "patched up" Oscar Ammer as Li'l Abner and pert Marcia Walden as Daisy Mae, who seem to be in the gay spirit of this annual delightful hill-billy party in the girls' gym.

SENIORS Donald Sexson, Steven Dillinger, Floyd Hester, Richard Harvey, Stanley Rice, Mr. Robert V. Belding, and Thomas H. White have a chat at the Bull Session discussing college days to come.

JULIA Henderson, senior, smiles proudly as Mrs. Barney fastens the D.A.R. Good Citizen Pin Award.

PREPARATION FOR LIFE IN THE COMMUNITY

SKILLFUL GUIDANCE PREPARES US TO MEET THE FUTURE

We are being taught like many before us have been taught, receiving an education that will help us throughout life. Tech, as one of the oldest comprehensive high schools in the country, can boast a long line of graduates who are successful in the community because of their start.

MRS. Turpin, dean of girls, helps Jean Redman with a scholarship application.

MAKING college plans with Miss Lois Sink, assistant dean, are Maxine Keyt and Roberta Russell, seniors.

MISS Horne, head senior sponsor, plans Beverly Snadgrass' senior year course of study.

MR. Walter, guidance director, consults with Richard Davis.

Mr. Denzler, coordinator, and Miss Anderson check David Hopping's and Skaidrite Lidums' records.

AS WERE OUR ALUMNI AS TECHITES

FRAN Schroeder, art-architectural drafting major, of Fran Schraeder and Associates, stands in the tower of Stuart Hall, the building he designed.

THOMAS Drake and Thomas Hayes, in Mr. Rosell's Architectural Drafting class, use reference material to check a drawing.

ESTELLE HAYES, Donna Pollard, Mary Bruder, Jane Charlesworth learn the fundamentals of library management in a Library Practice class.

DIANA Galerman, Library Practice grad, is a Public Library senior librarian.

"OVER the scaffolding and through the wood" go George Orff, Robert Bruce, Larry Engle, Ralph Pirtle, with Mr. Morris Woods (center) in Carpentry.

LADLING hot metal into molds and keeping fires burning are "all in a day's work" for Russell Willis and Donald Baker in Mr. Stone's Foundry class.

GOGGLED eyes and gloved hands protect Leon Dunkin, Leon Bates, Harlan Oliver, and Jim Canatsey against the scorching flames in Mr. Cruser's (standing) Welding Shop.

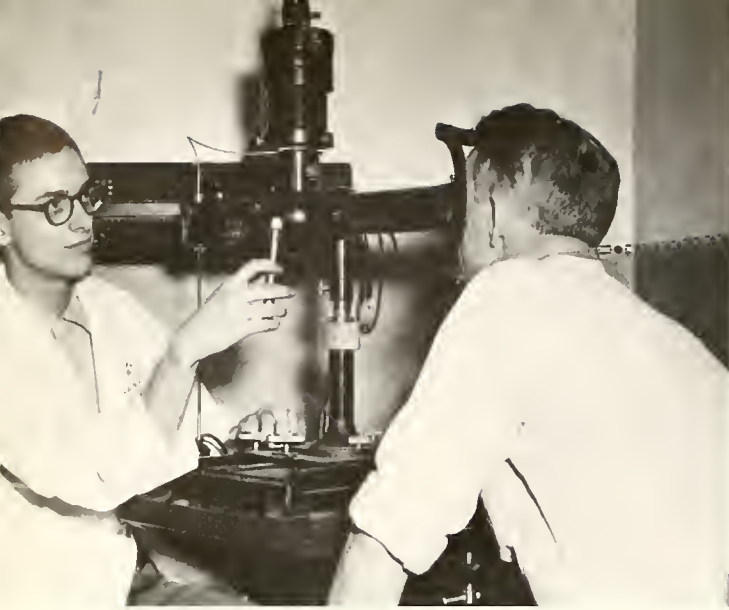

PRINTING Design students of Mr. Clyde Armel, Herman Halcomb, Gordon Price, Harry Thompson (left), Richard Aldridge, and James Greig (right) work on layouts, ready to set them in type when completed.

GEROLD Reilly, eight-semester Machine Shop pupil at Tech, who is now with Diamond Chain Company, plans or constructs highly intricate tools, dies, fixtures, jigs, and gauges, being able to perform any tool room operation to an accuracy of plus or minus .0001.

RODNEY Humphrey turns a pattern for a sheath pulley, while Richard Davidsan, Leon Pittman, Richard Martin, and George Henry work on patterns for hand wheels in the Pattern Making class of Mr. Edward S. Howe.

ED Sims, who was Arsenal Cannon photographer and took photography at Tech, is a photographer at Indiana University Medical School.

MR. C. S. Stewart, co-director of the Indiana State Teachers' Association Centennial Pageant, supervises a class project for the pageant.

THE Stagecraft class, under the supervision of Mr. Stewart, adorned the east basin of Monument Circle with an elaborate toyland scene for the annual Christmas display.

MEETING in the Radio Studio, with Mr. Richard Sharkey at the control board, Radio-Expression pupils, directed by Mrs. Ressie Fix, rehearse an entertaining program which they will broadcast for Brotherhood Week.

FRANK Persell, art director, Publications Division, Indianapolis Engraving Co., and member of the Chicago Art Directors, majored in art while at Tech.

Jay (Fix) Stewart, a Radio Practice student, has his own program "It Pays To Be Married" on N.B.C., and is master-of-ceremonies on "Town Hall Party," a Channel 11 simulcast.

DEVELOPING an appreciation of the old masters as well as modern art, Shirley Gates, Vija Celmins, James W. Harrell, and Dale May, sophomore and junior art students, visit John Herron Art Museum.

IN HOME ECONOMICS WE ARE PREPARED FOR HOMEMAKING AND FOR COMMUNITY LIFE

"A woman's place is in the home" so they say, but many of the women's arts are going commercial. Whether it is for business or for preparation as a housewife, Tech offers training. Everything from Social Arts and Family Living to cooking and sewing is in the well-chosen curriculum for both girls and boys.

IN Mrs. Eccleston's Home Management class Alberta Day and Mary Lou Kern ask questions of Mrs. Stena Twiname, local firm meat cutting demonstrator.

COMMERCIAL Cooking boys and girls learn quantity cooking by baking food for the cafeteria and cookies to sell.

AMONG the many things taught on good grooming in Cosmetology is hair dressing, as shown by Mrs. E. Monninger, with Patricia McCormick, the customer.

OUR HEALTH IS GUARDED FOR TODAY AND FOR THE FUTURE

Health is of major importance to a home, school, and community. Tech, with three registered nurses and a well equipped Health Center, guards pupils' health. Here, too, girls are taught elementary nursing to help them in their homes or to inspire them to enter the profession.

BARBARA Whitney, who took Nursing at Tech, graduate of the Methodist Hospital School of Nursing, is in the obstreptical department at the hospital.

CONCENTRATING on the sound of the voice, Judith Jones takes a hearing test as Linda Farmer waits her turn.

IN the Health Center, Ruth Williams interviewing students, Elloise Gill at the scales, and Charlene Hamersley taking notes, are preparing for a career in Nursing.

THIS IS OUR TECH WHICH TRAINS US

POSSIBLE future chemical engineer is Donald Williams performing an analysis of hydrogen peroxide as Nela Edwards and Robert Vasileff watch in Mr. Bolander's chemistry laboratory.

IN American Problems, taught by Miss Graf, class and panel, Loretta Dunville, Judith Griggs, John Kot, Armilda Vehling, and Richard Schultz, look at the challenger of Robert Gray (standing) who is discussing changes in business conditions.

Yes, our Tech is four schools in one—truly comprehensive. This, plus a beautiful campus, a wonderful faculty, abundance of activities, and expert guidance, prepares us to look to the future with confidence.

DEALING with human relations in a Community Living class, Sally Schoenewey points out the location of Matsuo and the Piscadores concerned in the lesson on current events, under the watchful eye of Mr. William Kimberlin.

JOE Hayes, author of "The Desperate Hours," Literary Guild best seller, wrote the "smash hit" play now running on Broadway and the movie. His wife, Marrijane Johnston Hayes, collaborates with Joe on many of his plays. Both were English majors, on Cannon staff, and leads in their senior plays.

TO MEET LIFE WITH SELF-CONFIDENCE

Because of the training we receive we will be better citizens, better prepared to meet the world's present problems, better prepared to be good home-makers. Because we are given training in every aspect of life, we will be better equipped to meet the future in an unsurpassed community.

ROBERT Belding, who returned to his Alma Mater, Tech, to head the Mathematics department, majored in math while in high school.

MARGARET Gamage Shiro, picture editor of Kodakery, Eastman Kodak Co., writes radio scripts for Sibley's in Rochester and broadcasts on the program. At Tech Peggy majored in English and was editor-in-chief of the Arsenal Cannon weekly.
